Job hunting can be a very daunting prospect for both the job seeker as well as the recruiter.

Finding that candidate with all the necessary qualifications can prove to be quite difficult especially if the target audience of the recruitment advert is not reached. Unfortunately, most channels for advertising vacancies are not targeted at specific audiences, causing recruiters endless hours of unnecessary sifting through inappropriate CVs.

Conversely being the ideal candidate but not being in the loop when it comes to available positions is enough to make any aspiring financial markets practitioner feel dejected. Countless hours are spent by jobseekers struggling to find their ideal position because they have to plough through advertised vacancies that are not suitable.

With an ever growing database of approximately 8000 financial markets practitioners SAIFM aims to bring financial market job seekers and employers together by emailing adverts on behalf of recruiters for a very affordable fee.

Adverts for legitimate vacancies within the financial markets, where as a minimum, a basic salary is offered, will be emailed in any officially recognised South African language of the advertiser's choice.

Several companies have made use of this service in the past and the feedback has been very positive, with many of them making regular use of this service.

Recruiters wishing to make use of this service can contact Melissa Joao via email melissa@saifm.co.za for more details.

Any person wishing to receive the adverts can subscribe here